SJV 1711 03/02/2018 – 10/02//2018

LOCATION OF THE PROJECT

The working places are in different places in Hanoi.

Fisherman Village and Phuc Tue center for disable children in Long Bien district

+ Fisherman Village: Over 100 years old and designed by Gustave Eiffel (of Eiffel Tower fame), Long Bien Bridge has a long, important and even glorious history. But these days it has fallen into disrepair and there are more convenient points to cross the Red River. Less people are using this bridge and, not surprisingly, even fewer take the time to look at what lies underneath.

In fact there are approximately 50 poor families spreading across two villages, who live in the shadow of the bridge. Residing in small boathouses, they just manage to eke out a living doing the itinerant work of day labourers, sidewalk hawkers or rubbish collectors and recyclers.

+ Currently, Phuc Tue center has 80 disabled children with ailments including Down's syndrome, Cerebral Palsy, Autism, children who have been victims of Agent Orange, as well as other mental illnesses. The mission of Phuc Tue Center is to help disabled children become more independent in their daily life by building their self-confidence. At the center we aim to help educate and improve mental health, as well as provide development and vocational skills training to help integrate these individuals back into employment. This does not only allow these individuals to feel independent in their daily life but this will also lessen the potential burden on the family and society.

ABOUT VIETNAMESE LUNAR NEW YEAR

In 2009, we officially had 5000 local members aged between 15 and 35 years old. SJVietnam hosts around 500 short and long term internationalvolunteer every year.

Vietnamese Lunar New Year, more commonly known by its shortened name Tết, is the most important and traditional holiday and festival in Vietnam. It is the Vietnamese New Year derived from the Chinese New Year based on the Lunar calendar, alunisolar calendar. The name Tết Nguyên Đán is Sino-Vietnamese for Feast of the First Morning, derived from the Kanji characters節元旦.

Tết takes place from the first day of the first month of the Lunar calendar (around late January or early February) until at least the third day. Many Vietnamese prepare for Tết by cooking special holiday foods and decorating their houses. There are a lot of customs practiced during Tết, like visiting a person's house on the first day of the new year, ancestral worshipping, wishing New Year's greetings, giving lucky money to children and elderly people, and opening a shop.

Tết is also an occasion for pilgrims and family reunions. During Tết, Vietnamese visit their relatives and temples, forgetting about the troubles of the past year and hoping for a better upcoming year. They consider Tết to be the first day of spring and the festival is often called Hội xuân (spring festival).

InVietnam, to celebrate Tết is to “ăn Tết”, literally meaning "Tết eating", showing the importance of food in its celebration. Some of the prepared foodsare eaten year-round, while others are unique to the festival and only eaten during Tết. Also, some of the food is prepared vegetarian as it is believed to be good luck to eat vegetarian on Tết. Some traditional food on Tết are:

“Bánh chưng” (Chungcake) and “bánh dầy”: essentially tightly packed sticky rice with meat or bean filling swrapped in banana leaves. Bánh chưng (rectangular) and bánh giầy (circular) are symbolically connected with Tết and are essential in any Tết celebration. Preparation is time-consuming, and can take days to cook. The story of their origins and their connection with Tết is often recounted to children while cooking them overnight.
