

THE GREAT YONDER

WORKCAMP IN BEDEPUSZTA

(EGY-19-04-ESC)

2019 August 7-23

WHERE IS BEDEPUSZTA AND WHAT IS THE GREAT YONDER?

Bedepuszta is a remote village in Northern Hungary, on a dead-end road in a beautiful valley, where you can walk through forests and fields for hours, without seeing any buildings or meeting any people. Still Bedepuszta is more than an idyllic place, it's also an ecological and cultural project, with The Great Yonder being the kick off.

The Great Yonder is a festival, a retreat and an inspiring holiday, taking place in a fairytale-like location, where artists have the freedom to make the music they want to make, and where guests can enjoy nature and space to their hearts' content. A true party, without sponsors and a maximum of 300 visitors, with readings by inspiring speakers, qi gong and yoga classes, games and activities.

For more, check out the >>>> website and the >>> program

Musicians from various bands and genres come together to make music on the stage, on top of a hill or under a pear tree together. Furthermore, there is yoga, people baking bread, the swimming pool is open and there are numerous games and inspiring speakers.

SURROUNDINGS, LEISURE ACTIVITIES

Bedepuszta is embedded in a hilly landscape with alternating forests, flower meadows and traces of disappeared villages. South of Bedepuszta the old volcanoes of the Eastern Cserhát are rising. This wooded low mountain range is a protected nature reservation. In the forest, a one and a half kilometer walk towards the village of Kisbárkány, there is a source with fresh water from the valley. The picturesque village of Hollókő, with its famous castle and craft shops, is an eight-kilometer walk the other way. The Buddhist temple of Tar and the monastery of Szent Kút are approximately 12 kilometers away. You can reach Budapest by bus, in approximately 2 hours.
