Local partner: City hall of Jodar. Jodar is a town located in the centre east of Andalucia, that has been living for ages on agriculture as it has good water resources in an dry area. Nowadays, there is a chance of changing the economical resources into mining, but this decision is not probably eco-sustainable at all. The Town Hall is quite aware of environmental issues and has been supporting local environmental projects such as Huerto de la Cora y Huerto del Mundo about Eco-agriculture and seeds preservation, as well as supporting the local NGO "Guardabosques" who deals with environmental education for children.

Guardabosques and De Amicitia made an agreement of cooperation for the realization of an international volunteering workcamp which will support summer camps with various workshops in English. It is well known that Spaniards' level of English is not so good, even though it is studied at school for more than 9 years. Simultaneously, the workshops will try to teach other values such as the respect for the environment and promote the culture of peace.

Work: The task of the volunteers will be creating workshops for kids. The volunteers will prepare and finalize the programme in the first days. Each day, a four hours workshop/activities will be given and organised for kids in the morning. The volunteers will have many facilities and a park to do the activities with children.

Accommodation: In a high school. The living conditions are basic, please bring a sleeping bag. Mats will be available but please check first! The centre is equipped with showers and WC. The volunteers are meant to prepare their breakfast, lunch and dinner, although last year we got a professional cook and we hope this year we will have the same "luxury". This project will include a one day only vegan food day agreed by volunteers for the promotion of environmental sustainable lifestyle.

Location: Jodar is a beautiful village located close to Jaen. The main economical activity is agriculture and it is surrounded by the Natural Park of Sierra Magina which is a natural area with high quality landscape, pure and nearly virgin. Volunteers will have excellent possibilities to visit Cordoba/Granada or Seville and other spots like Jaén (Arabic baths and cathedral), Ubeda and Baeza. There is also a chance of doing hiking route through the Serrezuela and the Sierra Magina and even to have a parapente experience in Pegalajar.

Terminal: Granada-Jaen FGL (GRX). Others Malaga Costa del Sol (AGP), Sevilla (SVQ) and Madrid Adolfo Suarez Barajas (MAD).

Special requirements: Good level of English and experience in leading kids/activities are really a must. Short but precise motivation letter is required where we can evaluate these skills.

Extra fee: 50 €

Take into consideration the following features:

- participants are really asked to try their best if they speak Spanish to communicate with the locals. Creating a good atmosphere will be the key for workcamps in future!
- volunteers are asked to take initiative, to "create" the workcamp, to leave a memory in Jodar so that nobody will not forget the project.
- it will be hot in the day and in the night. The landscape of Jodar is dry, be prepared for 40° Celsius temperature or more. Nevertheless it will be possible to use the swimming pool in town for free.

The other tasks that the volunteers have to carry on are;
